BELIEVE MAN BURNED BY SLAYERS

Glens Falls, N. Y., Nov. 27 (I.N.S.).—Possibilities of murder caused officials to order an autopsy performed today on the charred body of a man found in a burned barn at East Corinth. A revolver was found near the body. The body is believed to be that of Oscar S. Schaub, formerly of Philadelphia, who came here two months ago and purchased property for a fox farm. Schaub told neighbors that enemies had poisoned stock on a farm he owned in Pennsylvania.

NATURE IS CRUEL, as devoid of sentiment as a stockpile or any of its products.

A tornado struck Arkansas on Thanksgiving day, overwhelming families sitting at the holiday feast. Seventy dead, hundreds injured in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Missouri was the record last night.

IN CUBA and Florida, in the North, the West and across the ocean in Europe, tornadoes have done their destructive work within a few months.

The aim, source of light, heat and fuel, is blamed. A disturbance there, 50,000 miles away, means destruction here. We should be grateful for our safety, traveling so close to that huge furnace.

MRS. HALL, IN CLIMAX,
DENIES MURDER GUILT

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 27.—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, testifying in her own behalf at the Hall-Mills murder trial this afternoon, denied that she murdered her husband, the Rev. Edward W. Hall and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

The black-eyed, 32-year-old defendant made her denial from the witness stand while under direct examination by Robert M. McCarter, chief counsel for the defense.

Q.—Did you kill your husband or Mrs. Mills? A.—No.

Q.—Did you play and part in that tragedy? A.—I did not.

Q.—Were you in that neighborhood, in De Russy's Lane, on the evening of September 14, 1922? A.—I was not.

Q.—Have you given this jury a straightforward account of all your movements that night? A.—I have.

Mrs. Hall spoke in very low tones.

MIDDIES SNATCH LEAD
SCORING 2 TOUCHDOWNS

Soldiers Field, Chicago, Nov. 27.—The Navy's undefeated football team opened up in impressive fashion on the Army, scoring one touchdown within three minutes of the start of the game, and another in the first few moments of the second period.

The Navy started the scoring early, traveling up the field both through the military line and through the air. A long pass to Hardwick, followed by a fifteen-yard run on the part of the latter, brought the ball to Army's 5-yard stripe, from where Caldwell took it over on two plunges. Hamilton kicked the goal.

Toward the end of the first period Navy started an advance which continued into the second quarter until a touchdown had been scored. Twice one yard was gained on fourth.

Shows Her Bible
McCarter then walked to the witness stand and showed her a Bible. He asked her if it was her family Bible, and she said it was.

Q.—Does this Bible contain your family records and the records of your brother and sister? A.—Yes.

Her answers were in a very low tone. It was difficult to catch her words.

The Bible was offered in evidence. Continued on Page 4, Column 1.

Braves Field, Nov. 27.—Boston College and Holy Cross, traditional Jesuit College rivals, battled to a tie in their 24th grid struggle here this afternoon. A crowd of more than 40,000 persons witnessed the bitterly contested clash.

The final score was: Boston College, 0; Holy Cross, 0. The famed Eagles, undefeated this season, entered the game as 2 to 1 favorites, but as is usually the case in this classic, the odds meant nothing. Holy Cross proved just as strong as its rival in every department of the game.

Holy Cross had four fine attempts to score, but failed each time.

In the first period, shortly after the kickoff, Wise missed a drop kick from the 25-yard line.

In the second period, Phelan attempted a placement kick from the 25-yard line, which also failed.

In the third period, the Purple missed a 25-yard drop, which left the crusher and shortly afterward a forward pass, from the 15-yard line, was knocked down by McKenney near his own goal line.

B. C. was on the defensive for the most part. What few times the Eagles did start a drive, penalties, bad passes or intercepted forwards killed their efforts.

Time in the final period they seemed on their way to a score, but were stopped trying to make fourth down.

FIRST PERIOD.
Boston College won the toss and Captain Joe McKenney decided to defend the west goal.

Phelan kicked to McKenney, who received on his 15-yard line and ran it back to the 25-yard line. Weston lost a yard at left tackle.

POISON IN NEW YORK

Dressed in expensive clothing and wearing a profusion of jewelry, including a ring encrusted with nine diamonds, Miss Martin Gray, twenty-year-old, was arrested at the scene of a bottle of poison today and collapsed on the sidewalk at Park Avenue and 67th Street.

Prisoners who saw her fall picked her up and rushed her in a taxicab to Bellevue Hospital, where doctors said she would recover.

Gray, who is married, was taken to the hospital, refused to explain her attempted suicide or give any information about her husband.

Police learned that the left hand of the woman was in the New York Broadway Central Hotel in New York City.

POLICE SHOOT "MAD" DOG IN SOMERVILLE HOUSE

Policemen shot a dog in a bedroom of a house in the town of Somerville, N. York, last night, after it had run into the house and threatened to attack a family by tearing down curtains and attacking the children.

A man's desire to see his children well cared for as the Grim Reapers comes momentarily closer to him is the story of a woman's life today when marriage is mentioned as a thing at city hall by Annie T. Feeney, 35, and Alton Thoms, 31, of Logan, of Chicago.

For 13 years she has been housewife and mother of three children. Those years she has cared for her husband, who has been in the hospital for months. Logan has been declining to marry her.

According to Miss Feeney, she has been married for 13 years and has up all hope of saving him. The husband, who is now in the hospital, is a member of the five-day law suit obtained from Judge James T. Felt, who has ordered the husband to be committed to the psychiatric hospital until he is sane.

"He has only one desire," she said, "and that is to see his children well cared for and the little family kept together. He has been in the hospital for 13 years and has not recovered. I am fought off of him and I am now in the hospital. If the worst happens to be sure that I will not be able to care for the children."

Miss Feeney has cared for the well-known lawyer during the long

LETTERS SHOW VANDERBILT FAMILY JARS

New York, Nov. 27.—Internal strife in the family of General Cornelius Vanderbilt, the conflict of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., with his father and mother, and the marital troubles of the young Vanderbilts and his wife, are aired in a series of letters and telegrams disclosed preliminary to court proceedings to be held in one of the letters.

An attack on Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., in his father's house by an unnamed man who assaulted him with a pair of heavy brass fire tongs, is described by the youthful former publisher in one of the letters.

The asserted message came to light in connection with a deposition made by Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., in the office of his attorney, Dudley Field Malone.

The deposition was made relative to a suit for accounting brought by Lyndel L. Young of Los Angeles against Meredith P. Snyder, former receiver of Vanderbilt's defunct Los Angeles newspaper.

From Atlanta he wrote as follows to D. W. Churchill, his former confidential aide, last December:

My Dear Church:
Last week I had some of the nastiest experiences of all. Johnson, nicknamed "Old Boy Golden Rule," came to town. He had some sound ideas, but he is unscrupulously honest, as you know, and I told him repeatedly that we would never get his ideas over at the house because of the domination of my mother over my father.

My father does not seem to be interested in anything any more save his putting among champagne and keeping away from my mother's iron.

My kid sister has stood about all she could at the house. She confided a number of things to me and after hearing her pitiful story I agreed to protect and help her.

RECEIVES LAST RITES HERE, DIES IN NEW YORK
Death today claimed Bridget Tierney, twenty-four, of Queensbury, after landing in New York on the Hampshire from the ship at Westport. While the ship was here she received the last rites of the Catholic Church from the hands of Rev. Albert Rhea of St. James church, Hartford, avenue. In response to a radio call, she died at St. Vincent's Hospital, New York, having been unable to continue her trip.

'WAS HOUNDED TO SUICIDE!' SAYS WOMAN

After telling friends she was "hounded by the police" because of polygamy allegations, Mrs. Edna Lockhart of Lynn, mother of four children, swallowed poison tablets today in Scollay square, her second attempt at suicide within two years.

Three Boston policemen moved her life by quick first aid work. They saw Patrolman Bernard Womers, Joseph Lundy and Shover, who heard her screams and had her out of danger by the time an ambulance got her to Haymarket Relief Hospital.

Mrs. Lockhart first attempted suicide in April, 1925, when the authorities were seeking her on a charge of insanity. Upon recovering she was arrested and found guilty, but the sentence was suspended so that she could try to obtain a divorce from her first husband, Lockhart, and legally remarry the father of her four children.

Lynn police were seeking her a second time, on the ground that she violated her probation and also failed to support her children, when she tried to take her life today. She said she was unable to secure work, having lost one position, and her husband had deserted her long ago.

Handshaking in U. S. Hardened Ileana's Good Sword Arm

S. S. Berengaria, Nov. 27 (A.P.)—Princess Ileana derived at least one benefit from her tour of the United States. The Princess had a fencing bout in the ship's gymnasium with the instructor. Finally she was warned by him that she had better stop, as she might injure her wrist.

"I could fence for months after all the hand-shaking I did in America," replied Ileana, naively.

DUKE DENIES HE ASKED BREAK

London, Nov. 27 (T.N.S.)—The Duke of Marlborough has finally broken silence with regard to the annulment of his marriage to Consuelo Vanderbilt, to make a public statement to the effect that the annulment was initiated by his former wife and not by him.

Lewis and Lewis, attorneys for the duke, in a letter to the Times today, say: "Numerous false statements have been published about our client, and he desires it to be authoritatively stated that the application for annulment was made by Consuelo, Ileana and not by him."

MARRIAGE TIE OF HALLOFFS ANNULLED

Washington, Nov. 27.—(A.P.)—The romance of Frances A. Arnold, daughter of Major David G. Arnold, assistant director of the Veterans Bureau, and Ronfat Halloff, professional dancer and styled for a time as a "Georgian Prince," came to a definite end at Rockville, Maryland, when the Circuit Court issued an order annulling their marriage here in April, 1925.

Mrs. Arnold, known to her friends as Delight Arnold, was prominent in Washington society. Soon after her marriage to Halloff his title was questioned, and he explained that in his own city of Tiflis he was a "Prince" and that Americans had been at fault in translating this into "Prince."

After their marriage the couple went to New York, where Halloff encountered difficulties among them a breach of promise suit. Later they went to Europe, and the documents filed at Rockville showed that the wife had found papers indicating her husband had had his troubles there also.

The background of the romance was the meeting between Halloff and Major Arnold in Constantinople, where the latter was connected with the Near East Relief. Major Arnold induced Halloff to try his fortune in the United States.

Mrs. David G. Arnold, mother of Frances A. Arnold, was formerly Gladys Potter of Fall River, Mass.

Mrs. Hall proudly exhibited to a reporter messages of good cheer from a Protestant Episcopal church party. They had been sent to buoy her hopes as she took the witness stand as the chief witness in the great drama.

MRS. HALL TELLS OWN STORY AT DEATH TRIAL

McCarteer then read from the records the birth dates of the various members of the family.

Q—What church do you attend?
A—The Church of St. John the Evangelist.

Q—Before your marriage did you have any connection with St. John Church?
A—I taught Sunday school.

Q—Was your husband other than you were?
A—Seven years younger.

Regains Confidence

Mrs. Hall's voice became more distinct and she seemed to be regaining confidence.

Mrs. Hall related that after her marriage her husband and she lived in New Brunswick with her mother and Willie Stevens.

Q—When did your brother Henry die?
A—About 1910.

Q—Did he come to see you less often after your mother died?
A—I think he came more often during my mother's life.

Q—At the time of your husband's death, how many cars did you have?
A—A Dodge sedan and a Buick.

Q—Did you drive both cars?
A—I drove only the Dodge.

Q—Did Willie drive?
A—No.

"Husband Devoted"

Q—Was your husband a devoted husband?
A—Absolutely.

Q—Up to the time of his death did you notice the slightest change in his demeanor and conduct?
A—No.

Q—Did Willie have a pistol?
A—Yes.

Q—Did you remember your husband doing anything in that pistol?
A—About three years before his death my husband fired the firing pin.

Q—Where did he keep it?
A—in his room. I never told Willie it had been there.

Q—Describe the daily life of your husband in the home during the morning usually he made the calls in the afternoon. Was always had supper together and he was often out of the house in the evening.

Mrs. Hall testified that she aided her husband in every domestic duty.

Q—Did you know Eleanor Mills?
A—Yes.

Q—What was your acquaintance?
A—She was an active worker for the church.

By the time Mrs. Hall had completely regained her composure and halted McCarteer's questioning, this January.

McCarteer had shown a picture of her on the stand which was claimed the specific order of the court.

Justice Parker ordered the photographer removed from the courtroom and his camera confiscated.

Q—Was it customary for the church members and yourself to hold different institutions for the Parker institution?
A—Yes, ten or twelve members of the church would go at a time on some occasions.

Q—Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson of North Plainfield, N. J., had testified that on the night of the murder, Mrs. Hall, greatly excited, had come to the church inquiring for the Parker institution.

Q—Do you remember a Hallway party at the church?
A—I don't remember.

Flashlight Angers Judge; Photos of Mrs. Hall Barred

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 27 (U.S.)—Justice Parker, presiding jurist at the Hall-Mills trial, became so incensed when newspaper photographers took a flashlight photograph was taken in court that he revoked the permits of all newspaper photographers and they will not be able to take Mrs. Hall as she testifies today.

The offending photographers took a flashlight of Felix H. Martini, the private detective, when he appeared suddenly on the witness stand.

Justice Parker had shown irritation at previous testimony in the courtroom and the flashlight was the last straw.

that at a Hallway party in the church, Hall had danced nearly all the dances with Mrs. Mills.

Q—He you remember that early in 1923 Mrs. Mills was ill?
A—Yes, sir.

I took her to the hospital myself and visited her, she underwent a serious operation. I also took her home alone when she left the hospital.

Q—What did you help her expenses there?
A—Yes.

Q—Did your husband attend any camp in 1922?
A—Yes, a boys and girls' camp at Point Pleasant.

Q—Did you go down?
A—Yes.

Q—Where did you and your husband spend your vacation in 1923?
A—in Island, Maine.

Q—Where did you and Mr. Hall have on this trip?
A—The end of July.

She said she noticed no change in his conduct that summer and that he was as devoted as ever.

Mrs. Hall said her husband showed her letters written by Mrs. Mills to him at Seal Harbor.

Q—As far as this case, what was your attitude to church work?
A—They referred to church work.

Mrs. Hall declared that she knew nothing about that affair provided the letters found in the home of Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Mills, or the letters found subsequently in the Mills home.

Q—Did you know of any changes in the relations between Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills?
A—No.

Q—As far as this case, what was your attitude to church work?
A—No.

Q—What were the relations at William Stevens and Rev. Hall?
A—Very friendly.

Q—What was the telephone call?
A—About 7 o'clock.

Q—Did you stay on the porch all evening with Frances?
A—I went inside with Frances.

Q—What happened after that?
A—A few minutes later Mr. Hall came in and he was going to give me the bill. His manner was the same as usual.

Q—Did the telephone ring again that evening?
A—Yes, shortly after the supper. At first I didn't pay much attention because I thought somebody inside would answer. When it rang the second time, I went in and took the receiver of the hook then I heard Dr. Hall answer it up stairs. I think Louise (Jett), the maid, had called out something about that time. I am not sure about that.

It has been the State's contention that Mrs. Hall listened in on the telephone conversation, learned of the trying place of her husband and Mrs. Mills, notified her brothers and the three followed the couple to the deserted farm where the murder occurred.

Q—Did the receiver actually get to your ear?
A—I did not.

Q—What time did Rev. Hall go out?
A—Shortly after supper.

Q—What did you do?
A—I went upstairs and put Frances to bed. Then I returned down stairs alone and sat there for a while. My husband usually returned by 10 o'clock unless he was kept away by some meeting in the church.

Q—What did you do then?
A—Mr. Carter asked me to read for a while; I kept wondering what time Mrs. Hall was coming home.

Mr. Hall replied, "About 11 o'clock I went to bed but I was worried."

Q—What was the life of your husband and yourself at Seal Harbor?
A—We spent much of our time walking over the mountains.

Q—Did you notice any change in the demeanor of conduct of your husband toward you?
A—None whatever.

Q—Was he attentive to you?
A—Yes.

Q—What was that on September 13, the day before the murder, that she, Mr. Hall, his mother, Mrs. Clark, and Mrs. Mills went on an outing to Lake Hopewick?

Nothing unusual happened on this outing, she said, and they returned some time in the evening, leaving Mrs. Mills at her home.

Q—Was your husband in the habit of carrying much money with him?
A—Yes.

Q—What kind of a watch did your husband wear?
A—Gold watch with a fob.

Q—Was your husband in the habit of carrying much money with him?
A—Yes.

Q—What was your husband in the habit of carrying much money with him?

IMMOBILE, SHE HEARS FATEFUL WORDS

Mrs. Hall sat, almost expressionless, as State witnesses drew the web of evidence about her. Now her turn has come to tell her side of the tragic story of love and death.

100,000 RAIL MEN GET RAISE

Chicago, Nov. 27 (A.P.)—Eleven railroad operating out of Chicago have granted wage increases that will add three millions annually to the pay of about 100,000 shopmen.

The advance ranges from one to three cents an hour.

The move was negotiated through both employees' associations, but railway officials said that the first and general increases since last incident to the strike of shopmen.

Deadly involved are the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, Alton, Rock Island & Quincy, Chicago & Eastern Illinois, Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, and Chicago & Alton, and on some the new scales have been in effect a month or more, although unannounced publicly.

The new scales are said to be the largest constructed in this country. They develop a 300 horsepower. The vessel will have a cruising radius of 20,000 miles. Sea tests will be taken Monday.

MODEL INSURANCE CODE DRAFTED BY LAWYERS

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—The revised draft of a model insurance code for States has been completed by the committee on insurance law of the American Bar Association. It was announced today by William Brewster, vice-president and general counsel of the Travelers Insurance Company, chairman.

Under the plan, the code will be approved to next year's convention. Copies have been mailed for criticism and suggestions to insurance companies, State superintendents of insurance, and 100 leading attorneys.

THUG VICTIM'S WIDOW GETS JOB

St. Albans, Vt., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—Mrs. Georgianna W. Webb, whose husband, E. B. Webb, was shot to death in performance of his duties as customs agent at the Canadian border, was today appointed to a job in the State Department by an executive order signed by President Coolidge.

Ship Ashore Off Maine

Portland, N. H., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—The three-masted schooner Emily A. Northing of New York went ashore today on the east side of the island between Cranberry and Baker's islands, nine miles from Fort Hancock.

MOTHER OF THREE APPEALS TO BOSTON GOOD FELLOWS

Her husband unemployed, and the stark expected soon, a Roxbury mother of three children writes to the Christmas Goodfellow Editor of the Boston Evening American, appealing for assistance in her time of need.

Her letter speaks for itself. Here it is—

"I am a young mother of three children and expect another soon. My husband is out of work, and we have a very hard time to get along. Sometimes we have nothing at all. Please send me a Christmas basket. We all need clothes. I wear size 40. The children are a boy six, a girl three and another boy two. I hope you will not forget us."

The letter of a child is nearly always anticipated with much joy, but in this Roxbury woman's case, there is an element of unhappiness, on account of the child's arrival which the arrival of the child will bring about.

Christmas is a Goodfellow's day. We want to help this impoverished family in its time of need.

So, money will be sent to the Goodfellow fund, and he will be happy to send you and address so that you may give assistance of the kind that will cause the brave little woman to face motherhood again with renewed courage.

HUNDREDS ON FILE.
Hundreds of letters are now on file in the Boston American office, ready for Christmas Goodfellow. Many of them were written by young children who plead for shoes, stockings, underwear, outer clothing and food, while others were penned by disheartened mothers who can't understand where next month's rent is coming from or who are now wondering whether their Christmas dinner will be a hungry one.

Don't you want to help at least one of these families? If so, NOW is the time to act. We will give you the name and address of a family living in or near your neighborhood, and you can play the role of Santa Claus in your own way. We are certain that your own Christmas dinner will taste much better as a result of performing an act of charity of this character.

If you are one of those busy individuals with no time to spare for personal contact with a destitute family, the newspaper will act as your agent in distributing necessities of life, provided you contribute

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Miss Abbie Farwell Brown to Read Her Latest Book, 'The Silver Stair,' Monday Next at No. 46 Beacon Street

QUITE AN OCCASION IN THE WINTER'S literary-artistic progression is Monday's reading at No. 46 Beacon street by Miss Abbie Farwell Brown from her newest book, "The Silver Stair." The sponsor list and many reservations both point to a distinguished company to hear Miss Brown, Boston's well beloved and honored author.

SUCH AN OCCASION CARRIES special appeal to those not entirely given over to the frivolous round; those prominent Bostonians who find it admirable to savor the social scene with some attention to life's higher pursuits. Such as, for instance, Mrs. Philip Saltanell, Mrs. William Lowell Putnam, Miss Grace Nichols, Miss Caroline Tichnor, Mrs. Edward Burlingame Hill and many another.

WHEN THE PROSPECTIVE BUD AND HER MAMMA hide themselves to Europe in the Summer just preceding the debut season, it is a foregone conclusion that said debutante's trousseau will contain something very special in feminine finery created for Mademoiselle by the inspired fingers of a famous French designer.

SUCH A CREATION, BROUGHT HOME from the Source of Feminine Fashions on the Seine, was the lovely petite tulle frock Miss Agnes Boardman wore at her coming out ball. It was a billowy, bouffant model, slashed in pique satin, its every airy fold essentially French and essentially the jeune fille. Mrs. Gerald Boardman, mother of the bud, wore green chiffon with gold.

MEMBERS OF BOSTON'S UNIQUE BACHELOR ORGANIZATION, the Useless Club, are highly interested in the marriage club that has Richard Kimball Baker and Miss Barbara White as principals. Young Mr. Baker is, or rather was, a Useless Club member. But bachelors only are eligible to membership and once a young man succumbs to Cupid's darts then automatically he ceases to be on the club's active list.

THE BRIDE IS A DAUGHTER OF JUDGE ALDEN P. WHITE and Mrs. White of the Witch City. With her brilliant dark coloring she will be most effective in white satin and lace. Mrs. Robert Winsor, Jr., (Susan Baker) is in the bridal entourage, and Roland M. Baker, Jr., is best man. Miss Nancy White, sister of the bride, is honor maid. The ceremony is at four in the afternoon, in the Tabernacle Church.

COUNT AMALDO CASELLA-TAMBURINI, titled foreigner and artist of stellar attainments, came to town for the briefest of stays just before sailing for Europe. He is a passenger aboard the liner that now conveys Her Majesty of Romania back to her homeland. Boston friends of the Count include those interesting members of the social-diplomatic circle, the Marchese and Marchese Agostino Ferranti de Buffino.

CONTRARY TO MANY AND VARIOUS RUMORS, the Viscountess Romaine d'Osmay is not to include Boston in her American stay. The Viscountess, with a villa in Nice, to which she is shortly returning, is chiefly of interest to Boston's haute monde as the sister of Mrs. John Nicholas Brown, who this Winter figures locally as a Boston householder.

NORFOLK HUNT RIDERS PUT IN A PERFECT MORNING at their favorite sport on Thanksgiving Day. A clear sky and springy turf called to this smart sporting set, with the result that they turned out almost en masse for the last run of the Autumn. Over stone walls and across miles of pasture and rolling countryside went the hounds with the riders close at their heels.

NOW, THE AUTUMN SCHEDULE OF MEETS BEING COMPLETED, there is a scattering down Cape Cod way. A dozen or so of the masculine members make Chatham their centre, and a string of horses has already been shipped down in readiness for some weeks of hunting.

IN THE CHARMING OLD-TIMEY HOME of the Misses Curtis up on Mount Vernon street, a Curtis bud, Miss Frances, today makes her bow at an afternoon tea. The Misses Curtis take great delight in honoring their youthful relatives thus, and last Winter entertained similarly for a daughter of the Charles Hopkinson. Miss Frances Curtis is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Greely S. Curtis, and is attending college.

FUNDS MUST BE FORTHCOMING to help the temporary home for the M. S. P. C. C., so to that end next Thursday afternoon is devoted to a number of bridge parties with prominent supporters of the Junior Division as hostesses. Mrs. Richard Saltanell and Miss Mary Hunnewell preside over tea tables at the Dedham Club. Mrs. George West and Mrs. Clarke T. Baldwin have arranged for thirty-five tables at the Louis K. Liggett home.

MRS. GASPARD BACON, MRS. FREDERIC C. CHURCH, JR., Miss Ruth Thayer and Miss Helen Moseley also preside over several groups. Bridge is a never-failing money-getter, and by this afternoon the potentates of the Junior Division devote to insure the Home with a new lease of financial life. Boston shops with unflinching generosity have donated prizes and tea will be served.

KING VIDOR COLMAN VERY PROVES HIS MODEST IN METTLE SUCCESS

Some years ago in Texas a boy in his late teens set out to write, finance, direct and act his own motion picture. His friends said he was wasting his time. Nevertheless, this Texas boy, King Vidor, has directed what he claims to be one of the really great pictures of a motion picture. "The Big Parade" is the title of the picture which he directed. King Vidor was born in Galveston, Texas. His father, a lumber manufacturer, wanted him to follow that business. After his schooling at San Antonio, the initial steps toward becoming a lumber king did not interest the young man and he organized a "one-man" moving picture company, which proved a rather costly experiment. However, he did discover two very capable actresses in Florence Vidor and Corinne Griffith, who appeared in these initial pictures. Finding that his comedies had but a limited appeal, King Vidor went to Hollywood in 1915. For three years he worked at several studios as cameraman, assistant director, and actor. Then came the chance to direct his own picture and his originality was brought to the attention of the big producers, and fame and fortune followed.

TREMONT THEATRE

FILM FARE FOR NEW WEEK

METROPOLITAN—(Starting today) "Everybody's Acting." (first run) written and directed by Marshall Neilan. A human interest story of the theatre with comic and dramatic trimmings. Featured in the cast are Betty Bronson, Ford Sterling, Raymond Hitchcock, Louise Dresser, Lawrence Gray, Henry B. Walthall, Stuart Holmes and Edward Martindel. A Paramount picture. On the stage, Boris Petroff's "Garden of Dreams" fantasy.

LOEW'S STATE—"3 Bad Men" (first run), adapted from the Herman Whitaker novel, "Over the Border." An epic tale concerning the opening of the Sioux lands in the Dakotas for white settlement. In the cast are George O'Brien, Olive Borden, Lou Tellegen, J. Farrell McDonald, Tom Satchel, Frank Campeau and Ole Hara. John Ford directed. A William Fox picture. On the stage, the Kuban Kosack Russian Male Chorus, and Anita Huseck and John Hill, Boston Evening American radio contest winners.

MAJESTIC—"The Big Parade." Return engagement of King Vidor's melodrama of the World War, adapted from the Laurence Stallars story. Featured in the cast are John Gilbert, Renee Adoree, Tom O'Brien and Karl Danz. A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

OLYMPIA—(Starting tomorrow) Corinne Griffith in "Byzantium Sue" (first run), adapted from the stage play by Reginald Goode. Romance of a stage-struck shopgirl and a song plugger. Also in the cast are Tom Moore and Les Moran. Richard Wallace directed. A First National picture. Also vaudeville.

NEW BOSTON—(Starting tomorrow) "The Poplar Tree" (first run), adapted from an original screen story by Monte Bell. Romantic light comedy on the stage and Parisian society as a background. In the cast are Florence Vidor, Olive Brook, Grete Nissen and Andre Bergeron. Malcolm St. Clair directed. A Paramount picture. Also vaudeville.

MODERN AND BEACON—(Starting today) "Risky Business" (first run), adapted from the Charles Brackett story, "Pearls Before Coccy." Romantic light comedy. Vera Reynolds is starred with Ethel Clayton, Ward Crane and Zasu Pitts in support. Also "Dancing Days" (first run) with Helen Chadwick, Forrest Stanley and Lillian Rich.

FENWAY—(Starting today) "Breed of the Sea" (first run) with Ralph Ince, Margaret Livingston and Dorothy Dunbar. Melodrama of the tropics. Ralph Ince directed. An F. B. O. picture. Also Denis Kenyon in "Mistaken." Starting Wednesday, W. C. Fields in "So's Your Old Man," and Mary Astor in "Forever After."

LOUISE HANDS IT TO THE 'EXTRAS'

Louise Dresser, featured player in "Everybody's Acting" starting today at the Metropolitan, believes it is much easier for a woman to play an extra than for a man. "I speak from experience," says Louise Dresser. "After being started on the stage, I thought it would be a simple matter to achieve a similar success on the screen. But the camera does something peculiar to everyone and especially to stage players. It was terrified the first time I heard the grinding whirr of the running film. I wondered if my hat was on straight—in fact, all sorts of absurd things which, of course, detracted from my interest in the part. 'Extras' girls in the performance were not the least bit self-conscious and any one of them could have played the part better than I."

DETROIT SYMPHONY.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Ossip Gabrilowitch, will play in Boston for the first time Monday evening, December 6th, Schumann's Fourth Symphony, Beethoven's Third "Eroica" Symphony, Rossini's "Intermezzo Gondolieri" for Strings, Chausson's "Poeme," and Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 10." The program is one of the finest of an excellent program.

It's All in the Point of View.

Benn W. Levy, the Oostin author of "This Woman Business," explains the theme of his play by quoting a distinguished French wit who said that flirting is a good woman's idea of being naughty, and a naughty woman's idea of being good.

Laugh Tricks Explained

"Getting laughs on the stage and the same for the screen are separate branches of the acting art," asserts Gregory La Cava, Paramount director. "Incidents and situations that will cause a theatre audience to roar will at times fall entirely flat on a motion picture screen."

Mr. La Cava who directed "V. C. Fields in 'So's Your Old Man,'" showing at the Fenway next week, so remarked during a discussion with Fields as to how a certain scene should be played.

Mr. Fields and Mr. La Cava agree on the fundamentals of comedy. They say the elements of pathos are effective in the projection room.

Laugh Tricks Explained

"The 'immunities of tragedy,' they call it. The audience knows what is going to happen to the child actor and the actor—usually does not know—these are some of the things Mr. Fields and Mr. La Cava say so to make up a comedy, but they often disagree as to how to present them. The usually results in a frank discussion. When the director doesn't win, they do the situation two ways, and pick the one considered most effective in the projection room."

BOSTON SPORTING AMERICAN

NEWS OF THE DAY IT HAPPENS

BOSTON, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1935

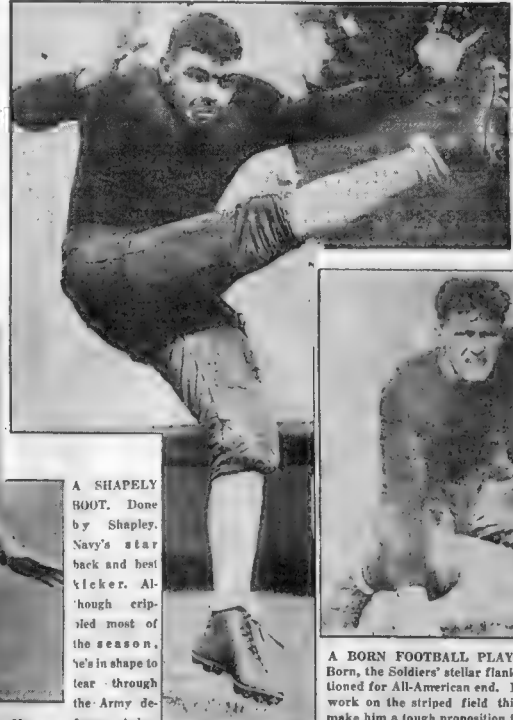

R. C. LINE BUCKER. Tom Smith, regular Eagle halfback, who is a probable starter against Holy Cross today. Tom is a valuable interfeer as well.

CRACK GUARD of the Army eleven is Schmidt, a veteran lineman, who ranks with the best in the country. He will give the Navy backs plenty of opposition.

BACK CRUNK. Rated as one of the best half-backs Boston College has ever had, he's a sweet punter, as this picture shows.

EAGLE PIVOT. Earl Clinton, who's held down the center berth on the B. C. line all season, although suffering from injuries. He's an accurate passer and a bear on the defense.

CAPTAIN HEWITT of the West Point outfit playing his last game for the soldiers should be a terror to stop. He was an All-American full back while a Pittsburgh. They call him "Tiny" because he's not.

THEY CALL HIM ONE OF THE BEST GUARDS that Holy Cross has had in many years. He is Gus Cervini, a short, stocky, rugged player with a fine fighting heart. Cervini has been "in there" all season. He is a stonewall on the defense, while on the offensive is a star. Coach O'Donnell is laying much stress on the shoulders of the youngster in today's pastime. Watch him go against the Eagles today.

OF AN ILLUSTRIOUS FAMILY. This is John Mahoney, whose brother, Hilay, was All-America end at Holy Cross. John may star the B. C. game at left tackle. He has proven himself a powerful linemen.

A SHAPELY BOOT. Done by Shapley. Navy's star back and best kicker. Although crippled most of the season, he's in shape to tear through the Army defenses today.

He's the Sailors' most powerful weapon. He's all around threat.

A BORN FOOTBALL PLAYER. Charley Born, the Soldiers' stellar flank, who is mentioned for All-American end. His sensational work on the striped field this season will make him a tough proposition for the experts to overlook. His performance today will play an important part in the outcome of the sensational service battle.
